This has to be my favorite videogame. Calm, peaceful music, fantastic visuals, and even an unspoken narrative which could be easily translated into a story of empowerment. Nothing more satisfying in the world.. In this game you control gust of wind and collect petals from glowing flowers. After you have gone through set of glowing flowers, the environment will change a bit and more glowing flowers will appear. Repeat this until you have passed the level. And that's basically the whole game.

The game is very casual and the graphics are beautiful so it's pretty nice and relaxing to play. Even if the game play is very simplistic, can't really hate it. Wouldn't pay too much for it, since the content is pretty light.. you may as well try and catch the wind.. It is divine. Just give it to your mum. She will love it. And people will shut up whom are saying playing videogames are always childish and nonsense.. if you want a dreamy surreal experience, check out Flower. It was once said that video games could never be art. This game is the antithesis to that notion. In many ways this is more than a game- it is an experience that anyone wanting to be moved emotionally can pick up. The vibrant colors combined with a soothing melody can unwind anyone from the most stressful of days.

Words simply do not do this game justice.

Yes, it looks a bit dull on the steam page however this, to me, is hands-down one of the best games I've ever played. The game has a unique way of storytelling and it is 100% a-ma-zing. The story is emotional, insightful and is an actual story... a rare quality in recent releases. It's not expensive and it is well worth the money. A huge thank you and a round of applause to the developers for pouring their hearts into this game, you can see how much effort was put in.

Final ruling: 10/10. Feels good.

I like it. A care for depression.. A travesty of a port.

The PS3 original was released ten years ago. It was and still is a classic. Unfortunately, Annapurna dropped the ball with this shoddy conversion plagued with a multitude of issues.

First of all, the technical analysis.

The audio is downright glitchy. The sound effects (like collecting petals) are full of clicks and pops. The elaborate acoustic effects of the PS3 version (like the music being faded and muffled while standing still) have been entirely removed, killing the immersion. Here, the music always plays at full volume. Sometimes the audio doesn't work at all when launching the game.

Also, either the cutscenes introducing each chapter have been removed (maybe because of their lower resolution) or they don't play at all on my machine, I can't tell. All I get is a black screen with the music before the chapter starts. Finally, be aware that this port requires a CPU with AVX instructions, for God knows whatever reasons.

Let's talk about the real issue of this port: the controls.

They all suck. Forget about the mouse and keyboard, this game wasn't designed around these devices. What about the analog stick of the default pad settings? It barely manages to do the job. The ONLY way to appreciate Flower is to play with a Sixaxis (gyroscope) controller, which these days means a DualShock 4. Since the gyro is not supported by XInput, you'll have to use the DS4 through its barebone "native" DInput driver (no Big Picture mode, no DS4Windows, no HidGuardian).

When you finally get the DS4 to work, and if you're familiar with the PS3 version, you quickly realize that the "native" driver doesn't work great either. The gyro sensibility is too high and, worst of all, the analog triggers are recognized as simple digital buttons, which means instant full speed instead of progressive acceleration, making the game tedious at best. And when you turn around, the landscape stays basically upright, while it was banking in the original (Afterburner style).

This port lacks complete polish. To this day, not a single patch has been released and I doubt we will ever see one. I hope Journey will not suffer the same mess, but I have no trust in the publisher. Today, I've just lost 5 bucks.

Flower deserved better on PC. Score: 2/10.

I am truly lost for words when it comes to describing Flower apart from saying that this is without doubt one of the best experiences I have ever had in my 35 years playing video games. would I definitely have to recommend this game as a must buy.. Very beautiful game! Perfect for when I'm feeling stressed out and need a little zen. The colors and the music are superb.
