South Korean prosecutors said they had seized 116 items during a raid on the Seoul offices of Incheon-based Grand Mile Holdings, including eight separate sets of accounting books. They also said they had also seized accounts held by the group at at least five other banks, and conducted searches on 20 other firms linked to the group. Prosecutors say Grand Mile Holdings, headed by former finance ministry secretary Lee Jae-seong, is suspected of embezzling or misappropriating public funds to the tune of 1.4 trillion won ($1.2 billion) during the three-year presidency of Lee Myung-bak. Lee, who was appointed finance minister in January 2011 and became president in February the following year, is accused of inflating state-funded projects while paying for his own lifestyle. Lee has denied wrongdoing and maintained that he was never connected to any government wrongdoing. He is not being investigated. The group is under investigation for embezzlement, fraud, bribery, perjury and other charges. How to Reach Address 82157476af
